—The sporting men of the town seem to enjoy the goose shooting. The most notable was Messrs. Scott, Bell and Bingham, who have reached nearly one hundred geese this spring.

—Work is being pushed along at the Experimental Farm. Seedling was finished in the early part of the week. Tree planting is in full swing; 15,000 trees have arrived from Nebraska. It is expected that a large number of different breeds will be added this spring.

—Jas. Conn met with a serious accident last week. As he was leading a young horse somehow caused it to shy, and he lost his foot and fell. Two of his fingers which were just in the ring of the head-stall, were broken. Dr. Hunt set the fractures and Mr.
Conn is getting on well.

—Between 60 and 70 persons have arrived
from England, under the auspices of the C.
C. & C. Co., who have purchased a large quantity of land from the Bell farm. Farming operations will be begun on a large scale
this week, and 16 teams of horses are expected in the course of a few days.

—At a meeting of the Regina Presbytery held here on the 30th to finally dispose of the call from Qu'Appelle to the Rev. John Ferry, the call was sustained and Mr. Ferry will in a short time take up his residence at Qu'Appelle, where it is to be hoped that his fearless vindication of right on every question and earnestness may be appreciated as they deserve.

—A trial solicited from parties having lame or interfering horses. Plow Shares made to order and satisfaction guaranteed.

Repairs of all kinds of wood work promptly attended to.

MOFFAT.

—A little less dry weather and a wee bit more rain wouldn't do a bit of harm.

—Mrs. Martin, of this place, has presented her husband with a fine little homesteader.
Both mother and son are doing well.

—Mr. Martin had the misfortune to lose a valuable mare a short time ago. Mr. Eigney also lost a young mare which broke its neck.

—Times are evidently not very bad in this settlement. On a certain quarter section may be seen several loads of lumber, with which one of our bachelors intends erecting a very elaborate mansion. It looks suspiciously as if he were building the cage, but where is the bird? Young ladies take warning.

—H. Proctor, of White Sand river, is visiting his old friends here.

—W. R. C. Willis has been engaged as teacher by the Southview district school.

—Mrs. Cornell, wife of Mr. T. S. Cornell, one of our choicest and enterprising communitarians, has returned to the colony after a somewhat lengthened sojourn down east.
She is accompanied by her brother, Mr.
Fraser, and his family.

—Messrs. Welch and Kent, with their families, have returned to the colony.
During the winter they have been out north with the cattle. They report having passed a comfortable winter. Still they prefer this part as a permanent place of residence.

—A meeting of the directors of the cheese
and butter company was held here Thursday when various matters connected with the factory were attended to. The hauling of the milk to the factory was let by public competition. The contract was let to Mr. W. Kirk. Mrs. L. Dales, through her agent, took the south-east route, and Mr.
Hartwell took the north-west route. The west route was not decided upon. It is expected the factory will be ready by the third week of the present month.

—The second annual spring show of stations was held here on Saturday last, under the auspices of the Grenfell Agricultural Society, and proved to be a complete success in every way. Notwithstanding the fact that seedling was in active progress there was a large attendance, our neighboring towns being well represented. The annual show of stations will unquestionably draw together a large number of horsemen in the future. The following is a list of the winners of prizes: Heavy draught—Prince 8th, Mr. Cummins, owner, 1st; Junco, N. Had-son, 2nd; Tolson, 3rd; Light draught—A. Eller, 1st; Unknown, W. Hartley, 2nd; Roadsters—Gold Dust, N. Hudson, 1st; Thoroughbred—Cornell, H. C. Cummins, 1st.
The weather is very fine and seedling almost finished, a considerably increased area being placed under crop.

—The school is conducted this season by Miss Burton from Indian Head.

—Mr. Stevenson, mail contractor between Moosemin and Boscawen, has hired Mr. W.
A. Greer to drive the mail rig this summer.

—Seedling will be almost completed this week. The recent rain has left the land in splendid condition.

—Mort and Watts, of Boscawen, and Whiting, of St. Kitts, were arrested for stealing wheat and pork near Neukwan and committed for trial on the 13th of May.

—Wm. Cameron, Presbyterian missionary from Queen's College, Kingston, will arrive in a few days and hold the first service here in the Presbyterian church on the 11th of May at 3 p.m., and every two weeks thereafter.

—Several stores and dwellings are being built here now.

—The Times printing office has been moved into Mr. W. Grayson's building.

—Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, of Watford, Ont., are spending a few days with Mr. Barnbridge, of Moose Jaw.

—Dr. Grady, representing the Independent Order of Foresters, delivered an address here Saturday. The Dr. is a good speaker and is always sure to please an audience.

—The vacant farm lands in this district are being seized up fast with a good class of practical farmers. There seems to be a good many experimenting on growing fruit this season. Some years ago it was thought that the culture of fruit was not to be undertaken here. Last winter was a hard winter and a careful experiment was made here.
Over ninety per cent are alive and growing.
All kinds of bushes have entered well.

BATTLEFORD.

Saskatchewan Herald.

—D. L. Clark, who has been spending the winter in the east, returned to Battleford on Monday.

—David Cooper is in from his ranch north of the Saskatchewan. He reports his cattle as having wintered well.

—The boiler for the Indian mill at Onion Lake reached this place a few days ago. It has been on the road from Swift Current since last fall.

—Contrary to appearances and to general expectation, owing to the great depth of snow that fell during the winter, the rivers cleared of ice with scarcely a perceptible rise of water. On the 25th April the surface ice moved out of the Battle river, and on the same day the Saskatchewan began to run.
It was thought the ponds would all overflow when the thaw set in, but the water has mostly soaked into the ground instead of running off the surface. Some say that the land has not turned up so well for years past as it does this spring.

—The Hudson's Bay Company paid out at Edmonton during the month of March about $7,000 in freight on goods for the northern districts.

—The assessment of Edmonton Protestant Public School district is $206,836 of real property $73,165, personal and $14,000 taxable income. Total assessed, $345,991.
This is exclusive of the assessments of St.
Joseph's Roman Catholic School district
which is included in the same limits.

—G. S. Young of the H. B. Co., Edmonton, was in charge of H. B. Co. post at Lac la Poudre from 1866 to 1887. Lac la Poudre is nearly 160 miles northwest of Edmonton and empties into the Athabasca. Had a good garden every year, raising all the hardy vegetables in perfection and cucumbers, pumpkins and corn as well, the latter for seed. The half breeds of Lac la Poudre of whom there are about 100 families, have grown wheat, barley and potatoes ever since the settlement was first established there and have never suffered injury from frost.
This is due to the influence of the lake, all cultivation being close to the shore. The surrounding country is timbered and swampy
and consequently frosty. Bishop Faraud of the Roman Catholic mission at Lac la Poudre raised tobacco every year he resided there and it grew luxuriantly.

FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1890.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

Imperial Federation is an idea much discussed, and schemes have even been formulated for bringing it into effect. Leagues have been formed in Great Britain and some of the colonies to promote the organized discussion of the subject. A League has been formed in Canada of which Dalton McCarthy is President, and Branch Leagues have been formed in some of the centres of population in the eastern provinces. As yet no branch of the league has been formed either in Manitoba or the Territories. Qu'Appelle is the first to move in this matter. Mr. S. H. Caswell has been in correspondence with the headquarters of the Dominion League and has taken the initiative to form a Branch League here. He has secured upwards of seventy signatures to a roll of membership, and a meeting will be held on Thursday evening next, at 2 o'clock, in the immigration building, for the purpose of organization. As these Leagues are formed to promote the discussion of this question, it is desirable that there be a full attendance in order that the necessary officers and committees may be appointed. No doubt when the League is fully organized here such arrangements will be made as will promote the intelligent discussion of Imperial Federation in all its bearings.

The Dominion Illustrated for May 3 comprises an even richer than usual variety of good things relating to nature and life in Canada. The portrait gallery includes the likenesses of the late Mr. Charles (Globe), the great paleontologist; of the late Prof. Foreman, M.P.P., the distinguished writer on literature and constitutional history; of Mr. J. J. Form, M.D., Assistant Surgeon-General; of the Hon. Judge Lindsay and of Albert (Herald), the "Hero of Beipier." Some chapters of Montreal's Conservatories, Raising a Steamer Armstrong at Brockville, the Wreck of the "Clack" at Wharfedale, and some general glimpses of Montreal and of Island life in the North-west, make up an extremely attractive number. The reading matter is of corresponding interest, comprising an address of Mr. J. Carroll Hopkins, articles on the Brittonic Empire, the conservation of the "World," the "Flesh and the Devil," a poem by Miss Carman, etc. Address: Dominion Illustrated, 72 St. James Street, Montreal.

The report of the department of fisheries contains a voluminous report of W. Ogilby's expedition in 1887 and 1888 of the Yukon and Mackenzie rivers. It is most interesting and no doubt as accurate and valuable as interesting. Mr. Ogilby estimates the known petroleum-bearing area of the Athabasca river region at 150,000 square miles and believes that still this is only a small part of the total area. He says: "It is possible that a well-bored at Edmonton would, at a reasonable depth, tap the formation containing this oil, and it is almost certain that our border at Athabasca Landing would." He mentions that with the use of Fraser & Co.'s steamers and boats, the Athabasca Landing, a few well-bored could be sunk more at every night out.

We tell our Ottawa readers—the fact of a generation has been recent, over this question, and it is not down yet. Though they do not use to discuss it. The first party was held in 1887, and it was the Conservative who were the winners. Now parties have grown on it, and today its discussion is a hot question. It is not a question of right to be heard, and no green which of free trade, protection, and language, as French-speaking, will succeed in having their young people, French, French, and generally speaking, such as the fifty odd persons a few weeks ago at Ottawa, and our brains or suffer our hearts.—Canada Notes

SEPARATE SCHOOLS IN THE NORTH-WEST.

As the North-West constitution is now experiencing a thorough overhauling by Parliament, the occasion for a discussion of the educational system forced upon the Territories presents itself. Nobody in the North-West ever asked that the Separate school plan be introduced there. The machinery for the dual arrangement was volunteered at the suggestion, no doubt, of an agency that it is ever watchful of its own interests, and is exceedingly influential at Ottawa, no matter which party is in office. There can be no question as to the object aimed at in the forcing of this system upon the Territories so very early in their history. Upper Canada had strenuously resisted the division of the schools, and it was only after a long and bitter fight that this opposition was overcome. But Upper Canada did not surrender to forces operating within the province. The conflict was won with the aid of Lower Canadian votes. As a matter of fact Quebec gave Ontario Separate schools, and then secured through the British North America Act a change in the constitution which compels us to continue these institutions, however earnestly the popular majority may oppose them, and however distasteful and mischievous they may become.

The moral gathered from the history of the Upper Canadian Separate school struggle is this: First, an English-speaking people will not willingly accept the double plan, second, the longer the adoption of this plan is deferred, the more remote become the hopes that it will be received; third, when once secured it must be engrafted on the constitution or it will be subject to assault and will speedily fall. It is this lesson from history that gave Separate schools to the Territories. The purpose was to force these schools upon the country before the English could protest against them; to place them there through the voice of Quebec, expressed in Parliament, and to fix them there by a constitution which the North-West people should not be able to change. So far the object has succeeded. But the scheme is not beyond recall. In a few years, when the Territories have become provinces with constitutions endorsed by the Imperial Parliament, it may be too late to attempt reform, or at least the work of reform may be rendered very laborious and hazardous. To-day, however, the evil is within reach, and Parliament itself can of its mere motion remove the compulsory clauses which do the mischief. But why should these clauses be repealed? It is not necessary to base the demand for repeal solely upon the unsuitability of the Separate school system for the Territories, though we believe that judged by that standard the separate plan could not stand. At all events, there is already the authority of the North-West Assembly for the declaration that the scheme is objectionable and injurious. A more general ground for the demand is that of justice and liberty. British Columbia, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island are free in educational matters, and Manitoba has just asserted her independence. Why should we place upon the coming provinces of the West restrictions that are not experienced either on the Atlantic or on the Pacific coast? Looking abroad, we find that the principle of local self-government in educational concerns is observed wherever the federal plan obtains. In the United States education is purely a state affair. So sacred is this subject to each State, and so dangerous is federal intervention with regard to it believed to be, that vigorous opposition is offered to the proposition of Mr. Blair that a proportion of the federal surplus be distributed among the States for educational purposes. In Switzerland each canton is supreme in educational matters. The only federal law that touches the question is the compulsory education provision, which was adopted by a direct vote of the people in 1874.

This Article requires each youth ful candidate for citizenship to receive, gratuitously and under the direction of civil, rather than religious, authority, a certain training in secular subjects. It was specially designed to check those over-zealous educationists who gave their pupils a liberal education in the catechism and the lives of the saints, but practically denied them the preparation necessary to enable them to fill in after years useful positions in the State. But, beyond imposing the compulsory education provisions, and these only after a plebiscite had been taken with regard to them, the Federal authority does nothing. It leaves the regulation of the schools and their division into Catholic or Protestant institutions entirely to the cantons. Nor would federal intervention be tolerated either by the Roman Catholics or by the Protestants. Six years ago a member of the National Council proposed the appointment of a Secretary of Public Instruction. It was at once feared that the basis of the educational fabric would be touched. A petition, signed by citizens of both creeds to the number of 180,905, demanded that the proposition be subjected to the Referendum. It was accordingly submitted to the people, by whom it was rejected on a vote showing a majority of 146,129 against it. In the cantons—and it is to be borne in mind that they are not on an average larger than our counties—freedom of control, with the limitations that education shall be compulsory, free, and under civil authority, is fully exercised in educational matters. The result is a thorough Public school system. In some cantons the historical facts of the common belief are alone taught in the schools. In others, the religious instruction pertaining to one class of children is given on one day, and that suitable for a different creed is given on another day. In a third series of cantons no religious teaching is allowed in the schools, but pastors and cures receive a yearly subvention for imparting religious instruction, at the discretion of the parents, outside. The methods, it will be observed, differ. But upon two points all are agreed. Education shall be controlled by the civil authorities, and the children of all creeds shall be educated together in secular matters, and shall thus be brought up as citizens of a common State. Above these local rules is the federal regulation under which the cantons, either individually or as body, cannot interfere with the practice of any one of their number. The canton of St. Gallen, which is almost exclusively Roman Catholic as Quebec, cannot, for instance, rise up and declare that Geneva—a canton that prefers the Public school plan—shall have a Separate school.

Our practice has differed entirely from that of the United States or Switzerland. We have permitted Quebec to force upon Ontario a school system that this province did not favour, and we have sat idly by while the same agency has undertaken to press the same system upon the North-West. If Ontario cannot now be set free the North-West can be; and Parliament should declare that the Territories shall henceforth be at liberty to reject or adopt the dual plan as the Legislature thinks fit. No friend of provincial rights can surely be so illiberal as to oppose this reform.—Mail.

ON THE FENCE.
Josiah, get down off that fence,
And cease your needless chatter,
I want to have a word with you
About a little matter.
Cgo.—Josiah, look me in the face;
You know this snail's condition,
And yet you've never cast a single Right out for prohibition.
I heard you on your knees last night
Ask help to keep from straying;
And now I want to know if you
Will vote as you've been praying?
You've prayed as loud as any man
When with the tide a floating
Josiah, you must stop such work,
And do some better votin'.
We women pray for better times,
And work the land and make 'em;
You men vote whiskey with its crimes,
And we just have to take 'em.
How long, Josiah, must this be?
We vote and pray 'gainst evil;
You pray all right for want I see,
And vote plenty for the devil.
There now, I've had my say, and you
Just save your sinning time,
And vote the way you've always prayed
For total prohibition.
—Canada Citizen.

RESTRICTIONS.

The defenders of the British subject's liberty to drink and sell spirituous and malt liquors feel more conquered than they are willing to admit at the advance of sentiment that more restrictions must be placed upon the traffic in alcoholic beverages. The publicans have for so many years been accustomed to consider their business a thoroughly reputable one that they are indignant, not to say amazed, at the accessions to the ranks of the intelligent minority, whose efforts they once laughed to scorn. They are exasperated at such men as Goschen and Randolph Churchill, who have never affiliated themselves with the Spartan band of Sir Wilfrid Lawson, should in the nation's council calmly assume it for granted that the liquor traffic must be henceforth confined within bounds that mark it as a menace to society. The venerable Advertiser, so long the organ of licensed victuallers' thinks that gloomy times indeed are coming upon England. It is shrewd enough to concede that the number of beer houses should be lessened, but is alarmed at the preparation to entrust the licensing power to untied hands. Still a great deal of consolation is naturally drawn from the fact that no change is likely to occur before next year, during which interval the returning sense of the British nation may make manifest to the nation's legislators how dangerous it is to attack a great institution like the one in question. The fashionable clubs are up in arms at the base proposals to tax them like common gin places. To be sure, they will be assessed, say £200 or so, which will give them a realization of the sense of their superiority to the vulgar "Red Lions" or "White Hearts," but they feel in a measure that the eccentric nobleman is a traitor to his class and should be ostracised as such.

EASILY ASCERTAINED.

It is easy to find out from any one who has used it, the virtues of Haggard's Yellow Oil for painful and inflammatory troubles, rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, frost bites, burns, bruises, sprains, contracted cords, stiff joints, aches, pains and soreness of any kind; it has no superior.

HIGH TIME TO BEGIN.

After a long winter the system needs a thorough cleansing, toning and regulating to remove impurities and prepare for summer. Thousands of testimonials show that Burdock Blood Bitters is the best spring medicine ever discovered, producing a feeling of buoyancy and strength. It removes that tired, worn-out feeling, and restores lost appetite.

A SEASONABLE HINT.

During the breaking up of winter, damp, chilly weather prevails, and rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, croup, quinsy and other painful effects of sudden cold are common. Haggard's Yellow Oil is a truly valuable household remedy for all such complaints.

AUTUMN ANXIETIES.

I had a very bad cough this fall, but Haggard's Pectoral Balm cured me completely.
E. ROTHGOLD, Washgo.
Pectoral Balm cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.

THE PUBLIC WARNED.

Many people are deceived into neglecting bad blood, dyspepsia, constipation, etc., and allow these and other diseases to become established. Act promptly by using nature's blood purifying balm, Burdock Blood Bitters, which regulates the entire system, curing all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

A committee was appointed to procure information on the subject for an adjourned meeting to be held at the Queen's hotel, on Wednesday evening next, at 20 o'clock, at which a full attendance is requested. SAVINGS OF GREAT MEN.
WHICH IS BEST?
In discussing the question of billiard and pool licenses at the last meeting of the municipal council, Councillor — said:
"It might yet be well with us, and we might all play billiards, if Providence would graciously smile on us for a couple of years."
Another Councillor said: "It would be infinitely better for us if Providence would shed tears on us for a while."

PHILHARMONIC MINSTRELS.

The last performance of the season of the above troupe was given at the Immigration building on Monday evening last before a crowded house. The company comprised the same persons as when they last appeared before a Qu'Appelle audience, with the exception of Mr. C. D. Fisher, M. Westaway and Master Brown. The first part, comprised of songs and jokes, fairly brought down the house, particularly the end songs by Messrs. Lindsay and Jones. The second part was opened with the "Jolly Coppersmith March" by Messrs. Purches and Davies, after which Mr. Perkyn Jones gave a character song entitled "Widow McCarthy," for which he was encored and gave "Clonakilly Band." Mr. Elve gave a flutina solo in his usual excellent style. The musical drama burlesque, entitled "The Troubled Troubadour, or the Mysterious Bologna," written expressly for this company by Corp. Geo. Purches, was opened by Messrs. Purches and D. S. Davies playing the "Boulevard March." The cast was as follows: Prof. Mapleson, H. Jagger; Joe Smith (afterwards Bazarini), C. C. Lindsay; Bar-nuchwoud, C. D. Fisher; Madame Bawleno, G. Bailey; Edgardo Mr-Stinger, M. Westaway; Markis Bel-goney, A. Elve; Moses Ripstein, J. P. Jones; Mr. Jagger played the part of the Professor to perfection. Mr. Lindsay brought down the house with his comic songs and heavy tragedy work. Mr. Jones acted the part of the "Sheeny" perfectly. Mr. Westaway, in his rendering of "I'm Getting a Big Boy now," showed the Qu'Appelle people that he was competent to take the part of Edgardo Mr-Stinger, the accepted lover of Madame Bawleno. The performance reflects great credit upon the gentlemen who to k part, and we hope that by next fall they will be revived for next winter.

WE do not claim to have received a Gold Medal at Paris, although we received two Silver Medals, but we DO CLAIM—
FIRST—To have defeated the Massey (Toronto) Binder in every competition in the world, where we have met it on an equal footing.
SECOND—During the season of 1889-90, in Australasia, the "Brantford" defeated all the leading binders of the world. See list of victories.
THIRD—In the Australasian competitions the "Brantford" Binder defeated the Massey (Toronto) SIX TIMES; or EVERY TIME the two binders came into competition the "Brantford" was victorious. See list of victories.
FOURTH—The "Brantford" Binder replaced every other binder of any consequence made in Canada in 1889. That is, where other makes of NEW binders failed and were returned, the "Brantford" was purchased and successfully finished the work.
FIFTH—We challenge any one to point to a single instance where a new "Brantford" has been returned through failure to do its work.
SIXTH—A great many more "Brantford" Binders were sold in Canada in 1889 than of ANY OTHER MAKE, and as many as were sold by FOURTEEN other Canadian makers put together.
SEVENTH—The "Brantford" Binder is a "Home" machine and has a "Home" record without a single defeat in any kind of crop used by hundreds of satisfied farmers in all the provinces of the Dominion.
EIGHTH—The "Brantford" Binder, as sold "at home," is specially designed and built for home trade, and is particularly adapted to the needs of Canadian farms and farmers. For foreign countries it is built to suit the peculiarities of the land and crop prevailing where it is sold.
